BELLE GLADE — PAHOKEE, FL

SMOKE BOILS UP, towering thousands of feet into the sky over South Bay last week as firefighters from South Bay, Belle Glade, Pahokee and the state Forestry Service banded together to burn the South Bay Elementary School. The school, which had seen more than 50 years of service since its erection in 1929, was condemned and abandoned this spring. The city commission plans to use the site as a recreational park.

Pahokee doubles property tax

by Allan Dering
PAHOKEE — A millage rate as high as 9.5 double this year's property tax rate, and increases in both garbage and water rates face Pahokee taxpayers.

Forewarning of the higher rates was sounded at Tuesday night's council session when councilmen approving filing a maximum millage rate of 9.5 with county property appraiser Dave Reid, as compared with this year's 4.935 rate. Because council is still compiling the coming year's budget and final figures are not yet available, the total revenue needed isn't known. But in filing the estimated 9.5 rate City Clerk Betty McCoy commented that the city could adopt a 5.5 assessment rate below that amount but cannot exceed it, once it is filed.

The added millage would increase revenue from property taxes by roughly $85,000, according to Mrs. McCoy. In preparing the '80-81 budget, city officials are not only having to deal with inflated costs. The city also faces reduced revenues from the state — a loss of $69,000 in shared revenue — and the threat of decreased money from property taxes if voters approve the proposed increase in Homestead exemptions in October.

In an Oct. 7 referendum, voters will decide whether the present $5,000 Homestead exemption will be raised to $15,000 with two subsequent annual increases to $20,000 and $25,000.

Along with a jump in the millage rate, the new budget will call for increases in the garbage and water fees. Resolutions calling for new rates have been drawn up by City Attorney Michael Sander and the amount of the rate increase will probably be set at a budget workshop this week.

Council is meeting in a series of workshop sessions to finalize the budget for a Sept. 29 public hearing before it can be approved.

The rate increases on water and garbage collection will be the first levied in some years.

Belle Glade holds the line at 8.6 mills

BELLE GLADE — City commissioners who adopted a tentative 9.25 mills for the 1980-81 budget Monday evening during their first meeting met in a workshop Tuesday evening and agreed to enough new cuts to allow them to go with an 8.6 mill levy, the same millage in force for this year.

The 8.6 mill tax, under which property owners will pay $5.60 per thousand dollars value assessed, was adopted despite the fact an amendment on the Oct. 7 runoff election ballot which would lower the amount to be taxed on homes. The amendment, should it pass, will increase the homestead exemption homeowners can claim to $25,000 over the next three years from the existing $5,000 level, will decrease the expected property tax revenue from $700,000 in the current budget to $649,000 next year.

The commissioners balanced the budget by agreeing to some $32,000 in cuts spread throughout the budget, rather than adopt a motion by Mayor Ralph Kirk to raise their own salaries in half.

Kirk, who handed the gavel to Vice Mayor Claude Tindall for a special session, said the commission could cut $17,225 from the budget by the move. He noted the mayor's annual salary is $7,800, the vice mayor's salary is $7,150 and the other three commissioners are paid $6,500.

Tindall handed the gavel back to Kirk to second the motion, which finally failed on a 3-2 vote, with Commissioners Tom Altman, Randy Davidson and Dorothy Walker voting it down.

Tindall said he felt that since other areas of the budget is being cut, the commissioners should "bite the bullet" and cut their own salaries.

Altman said he disagreed, that even if some people think the commissioners are overpaid, he feels he's underpaid. He noted the commissioners haven't voted themselves a raise in the six years he's been on the board and said any commissioner doing his or her job has a lot of expenses, such as the time taken off from their regular jobs.

"I remember a few years ago," Altman said, "when there was some controversy in the press about my pay. My best advice to people who were upset about it then is the same as it is now. Be sure you get your money's worth on election day."

Complaint filed Asberry drops out of city race

By Dean Jones

BELLE GLADE — John L. Asberry Jr. ended a week of furious controversy, and the possibility criminal charges would be filed against him when a certified letter was received this morning by City Clerk June Boglioli informing her he had dropped out of his race with incumbent City Commissioner Tom Altman.

Mrs. Boglioli received the letter at about 10:15 a.m. today, telling her that Asberry, "due to unforeseen circumstances, can no longer be a candidate," in the Group One at-large race against Altman.

City Attorney John Baker filed a complaint Monday with the Palm Beach County State's Attorney's office in the wake of a shouting match in Mrs. Boglioli's office when Asberry refused to complete the oral oath as a candidate.

Mrs. Boglioli said that when she got to the part in the oral oath, in which Asberry would normally affirm he has been a city resident for the past year, Asberry mumbled something she couldn't hear.

She said she repeated that line of the oath, thinking Asberry hadn't heard her and again she couldn't understand his reply. When she repeated it the third time and asked him if he understood it, and if he had lived in the city for a year, he said he had lived in the city one month.

Other persons in the room said they thought Asberry said he had lived in the city for eight months and, when contacted Thursday morning, Asberry said he has lived here for eight months.

Mrs. Boglioli telephoned Baker for instructions and she said Baker told her she couldn't complete the filing process with Asberry if he refused to take the oath.

Mrs. Boglioli said Baker continued through Wednesday afternoon to tell Asberry that Asberry was not a qualified candidate and, when he put his qualifying papers on her desk, she told Asberry she couldn't accept him as a candidate.

Thursday morning, Mrs. Boglioli said Baker told her he had done some more research and had come to the conclusion that since Asberry had completed the written oath and had it notarized, that action superseded the verbal oath and he was, indeed, to be regarded a bona fide candidate, although he would still be responsible for what he said in the oath and for the check with which he paid his qualifying fee of $25, which Mrs. Boglioli said fell short of satisfying state election laws.

In a telephone interview Thursday morning, Asberry affirmed he had been a resident of Belle Glade for eight months but that, "it is my understanding," that only an eight month residency is required because he had qualified as a candidate in a "wild chair, non-partisan" race. He said he understood that the city charter requires a one-year residency in order to run for the three seats occupied by commissioners who represent boroughs but only eight months is required for the two at-large seats.

He said he understood that was the requirement as set forth in the city charter but when asked where he had received his information, he refused to comment although he said the copies of the charter "they" had at city hall had not been properly revised or they would reflect the eight-month residency requirement.

Asberry also said that as far as he was concerned, he had completed the verbal oath as well as the written oath. "I took the oath," he said, "I may have stumbled but it was because it (the oath) was kind of long and my mind got off the track."

Meanwhile, the city attorney and the city clerk continued to confer and Commissioner Altman was exploring possible actions he could take, including the possibility of taking Asberry to court.

By Friday, Altman had decided to take no action and to accept Asberry as a bona fide candidate. Baker, however, began preparing a complaint he finally delivered Friday morning to Assistant State Attorney Michael Miller.

Miller said he would have to confer with Palm Beach State Attorney David Bludworth before he could say more than that he had received a complaint from the city. He said Bludworth was out of town and was expected back sometime today.

Another source, however, who requested to remain anonymous, said it was his understanding that swearing falsely to an oath is a third degree felony and carries a maximum penalty of five years of prison.

During the Thursday morning telephone interview, Asberry said his only campaign platform was to get the city to do something to create more rental housing for low income residents of the city.

He said his strategy would be to seek a debate with Altman. Altman said, when asked if he would debate Asberry, that he wouldn't be used to draw a crowd for his opponent or be used to provide Asberry with an education about the city.

"Besides," Altman said, "I doubt he means the same kind of debate I think of when I think of a debate. Let him draw his crowds and I'll draw mine. I'm not going to do his work for him."

Another controversial point in Asberry's qualifications was the address he gave as 1102 Southwest Ave. A. While there is a West Avenue A, there is no Southwest Avenue A. The

Sanders years were productive

By Dean Jones

BELLE GLADE — The bombshell dropped by City Manager Robert R. Sanders Monday night, when he resigned his position effective Friday in order to take over the administration of the City of Key West, ended a four-year period of growth he reflected on Tuesday.

Sanders told the commissioners he had been contacted by Key West officials for the first time last Wednesday, after those officials had fired their city manager when he reported less than $1,500 in the city's coffers, and he said he had only accepted the offer Monday evening, less than an hour before the commission meeting began.

He made a strong plea for the commission to allow him to leave Friday because of the problems facing Key West, but stressed his first loyalty now is to Belle Glade and offered, if the commissioners wished, to give 30-45 days notice.

Every one of the five commissioners said they didn't want to see Sanders leave Belle Glade but, when the matter was put to a vote, they all agreed to let him leave at the end of this week. Sanders did say that if he is needed, he will return on weekends indefinitely to help with the transition until the city can find a replacement.

As he has done seven times over a number of years, City Finance Director Frank Anderson will fill in as acting city manager until a full time replacement is found.

"You always have split emotions at a time like this," Commissioner Tom Altman said. "I'm sorry to see Bob go but I'm happy for his advancement. I think the nature of (Key West's) problems necessitates a quick release."

"Frankly," Mayor Ralph Kirk added, "I'm not happy to hear it — not a damn bit, but I'd be willing to agree to it if it's the rest of the commission agrees."

Reminiscing Tuesday morning over tenure at Belle Glade, Sanders said he believes a number of accomplishments could be noted, some of which would leave a permanent stain on the city's future.

Among other things, he noted:

- The completion of the municipal complex, "and you'd have to go a long way to find another city of a similar size with a comparable complex."
- The completion of the Lake Shore and Airport Parks.
- The reduction of the millage on ad valorem taxes, "as significant reduction, notwithstanding increases in rates for water, sewer, garbage and trash service."
- The rewriting of the city's zoning code and the drafting of the city's first development code.
- The completion of the city's comprehensive plan which is required by law.
- The completion of the city's Civil Defense Plan and the building of the Emergency Operations

Opinion

I've heard of some strange alibies before, when someone gets themselves caught in a crack but a preacher in Chicago apparently really means it when he says, "The Devil made me do it."

Not that he means the Devil made him commit the two murders he's accused of. He means, according to a wire story in a local daily Sunday, that the Devil made him confess to the two sayings when he was innocent.

Roland Kashney, a self-proclaimed prophet of God, said the Devil literally beat a confession out of him when he was accused by police officers and that's not all.

The Rev. Kashney went even further when he said he had been attacked by demons as early as 1968, two years before the first murder and shortly after he realized he was a prophet, in an attempt to get him to change his mind and admit he wasn't a prophet after all.

So what does the defense attorney do in a case like this? Why he naturally calls to rid the self-proclaimed prophet of his self-proclaimed demons who've possessed him.

Sounds reasonable to me. As a matter of fact, I guess the same excuse could be offered by the owner of an early Jewish home equipped with what was apparently a fertility idol in the living room.

The home, according to another wire story in the same Sunday paper, was excavated not too long ago in Jerusalem and dated back to the 6th century B.C. When I say early, I mean early.

The story started out with a report of the excavation of what is thought to be King David's palace in Jerusalem, then went on to discuss a finding of a Jewish residential neighborhood, including "well-furnished stone toilets" and, "a unique ceramic cultic figure of a zoned circumcised man with two pairs of arms that was uncovered in one of the Isrealite houses, where it was probably used as a fertility idol."

"The prophets preached against it, but there they are in Isreali homes," said the excavation director, Yigal Shilo, referring to the exotic figure, which seems to be clutching a handful of grapes.

Shilo was not quoted as saying anything about it but the fertility aspect of the little ceramic critter could have been two-pronged. The story gives the implication the guy was a sex fiend because he was naked as the day he was born but if he was holding a bunch of grapes, he might be interested in the fruit of the vine too...something like Rachea, don'tcha know?

Master of fact, I quickly came to the conclusion the archeologists had misinterpreted the thing all the way around. That little guy was the local god of fun 'n' frolics, not fertility.

But something I saw on television Friday night was more along the line of fun and profits than fun and frolics...or maybe it would be better stated fun and votes.

For those who missed it, there was a little item that was looking if it wasn't a reinforcement for Will Rogers' exam that if he couldn't find something funny anywhere else, he could always go to the daily newspapers...and television serves just as well.

I'm not exactly sure that big government wastes big bucks...not even to Congressmen...point proven last week by a release from U.S. Senator Richard Stone's office headlined Federal Agencies Waste Millions In Year-End Spending Spree.

I've heard a number of times about flags being donated by Congressmen for special occasions, such as the grand openings of new city halls, when the flag was certified as something special. I had flown over the Capitol Building in Washington, D.C.

Well, the clip shown on national TV Friday night was further proof that we don't have to go any further than our chosen representatives to find we as a nation are getting ripped off.

Those flags may have flown over the Capitol for no more than a second and a half.

There was a crew of about five men running flags up and down a couple of stairs well hidden from the public's prying eyes of course, then re-packing the flags into their boxes along with certificates that the flags had flown over the Capitol.

I'll say one thing for the crew. It may have been because of the television camera on hand but those guys were working a lot more efficiently than most government employees have a reputation for.

Those guys at the flagpoles were running copies of Old glory up and down at the rate of 10 a minute.

Considering there were two flagstuffs being used, that means they must run through, and allowing for the teams to work at half speed when the prying eyes of the TV camera wasn't around, that still works out to an astounding one and a quarter million flags a year that congressmen could hand out as certified Capitol-used flags. That's a lot of city halls in anybody's language.

G'bye, Bob

When Belle Glade City Manager Robert R. Sanders told the city commission Monday night he was leaving to accept the same position in the troubled city of Key West, it must have hit everyone who's watched city operations for the past four years the same way.

The news was shockingly sudden and Belle Glade is facing the job of finding someone who can fill a big pair of shoes.

How big a pair of shoes is aptly illustrated by the fact Sanders is the first city manager to leave willingly and without pressure in at least 10 years.

Under Sanders' administration, the city has taken a number of giant strides forward, including: The growth of the city's recreation department from an infant to a lusty, full-fledged program including two major parks and a complete program of activities that have helped cement relations between city residents.

• The completion of the city's municipal complex that had been on the drawing boards for years before Sanders arrived.

• The re-writing and updating of the city's zoning code and the creation of a development code, the combination of which, in connection with the city's new comprehensive plan which was also drawn up during Sanders' tenure, will leave his stamp on the growth of the city for decades to come.

• An updated Civil Defense plan, including the building of an Emergency Operations Center which proved itself during Hurricane David last year.

• Guiding the city through the majority of its share of the 201 Plan, dealing with the disposal of wastewater in the city. Also under the 201 Plan, the treatment of sewer in the city will be determined for the foreseeable future.

One accomplishment which doesn't directly touch the average resident but which certainly affected city commissioners was to completely revamp the budgetary process. Before Sanders, the commission usually took anywhere up to five weeks, meeting about three evenings a week for an average of five hours a meeting. After Sanders, that 75 hours was cut to about 15 hours, all concentrated in one weekend...and the commissioners could more readily understand the budgets he presented.

Sanders has also been a driving force in other community activities, notably the Black Gold Jubilee, and has made any number of friends in the city.

All of which explains why his pay was jumped $10,000 over the four years he's been in Belle Glade and, as the television commercial puts it, he's darn well worth it.

Key West's gain is Belle Glade's loss but congratulations, Bob. We'll miss you.

End the feud

There was an especially bright spot in the news over the past two weeks when positive steps were taken to end the longstanding feud which had been simmering between the Belle Glade City Commission and the Chamber of Commerce.

It would probably be hard for anyone to pinpoint when the two bodies agreed to disagree but, without attempting to re-open old wounds, it led to the general feeling on the Chamber's side that the commissioners were crowding them and didn't understand the fact the directors and the commissioners were working toward the same goal, while on the commissioners' side, the feeling was growing the

40 YEARS AGO

The war in Europe was having its effects in the Glades. US engineers in Clewiston announced that visitors to the site would thereafter be required to have special permits and Palm Beach County commissioners, in response to a federal government request, announced fishing from county bridges was being curtailed.

The Alien Registration Act was passed requiring all aliens to register at the post office before Dec. 26.

US Sugar Corp. announced plans to go into a cattle feeding and study project using dehydrated feed mixed with molasses.

Interior work was started on the new Prince Theatre building in Pahokee and the Everglades Theatre in Belle Glade was due to install leather seats and a new balcony.

And Florida drivers were required to get licenses for the first time.

25 YEARS AGO

A three-year permit to test drill for oil in Lake

Okeechobee was sought by the Caramita Co. of Pensacola.

Belle Glade residents were being asked to "become address conscious" by Postmaster George P. Farnall who explained that with the growth of the city, postal employees didn't know everybody in town and where they lived any more.

10 YEARS AGO

Frank Seides was making plans to open the Circle S Drug Store in Pahokee in a new building next to the Army Store.

Everglades Memorial Hospital Auxiliary had raised $1,500 for 60 pairs of new drapes, according to the president, Mrs. Grace Maxson.

Members were hanging the drapes in readiness for the open-house at the new hospital.

Marshall Lair was named the new Pahokee City Clerk and Betty McCoy was named his assistant.

And formal dedication of the new Glades General Hospital was set for Aug. 29 with Abbie Zampf, Harold Rabin and Muri Thorne to perform the ribbon-cutting. Also to be dedicated that day was the new educational wing of St. Peter's Lutheran Church, on West Canal Street North.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

This letter in response to the story done by Mr. H.G. Dundas, "Our illegal alien posse: Dunk's Almanac". I'm not a reporter or arguing his facts. But, he didn't have to use such harsh words. I've heard before, but presently I'm unaware of facts to back this up; but I'm sure some of the readers have heard or know it also. I heard that one out of 10 people have a forefather or foremother who is an immigrant, even a few who claim without necessary papers if some just check back far enough in history.

And for those concerned, I'm not of the Mexican origin or married to one related to any as I know of. But, I'm a 21 year old woman and a black citizen, whose black ancestors helped mostly to build America, brought on ships, unwillingly, and sold, as were the people of other origins (races). And what really tore me up is when he called the Mexican kids rag rats. They're not responsible for their parents bringing them here. Mr. Dundas should visit Mexico and other places where illegal aliens come from, like the West Indies, Cuba, Haiti, etc. He should especially visit the places tourists don't see and check the housing and prices of rent and food. I bet he would show more consideration. No, I have not visited, but have seen films and they weren't trick photography. He shouldn't over-dramatize the use of the American language.

Thank You,
/s/ Mrs. Heather Holden

TO THE EDITOR, FOR THE PEOPLE!

As a property owner and 100 percent tax payer including late charges I would like to view my thoughts on the issues of the upcoming election for City Commissioner.

The taxes have gotten so high plus trying to compete with tax free housing projects, "free enterprises" are fighting a losing battle. If the Senators and Congressmen don't slow down the FmHA and HUD, the property owners and tax payers will be forced out of business.

Recently I read in The Palm Beach Post about a 28-year old man by the name of Mr. Asberry. He is running against Thomas Altman for the election of city commissioner. His platform is: "More free housing projects for the poor."

I wonder just how much

"But I believe the most far-reaching accomplishment, so far as the community is concerned," he said, "has been the growth of the Recreation Department. I believe it's improved race relations and has helped to keep tensions down. Once you've played flag football or softball with someone, you find it harder to hit him with a baseball bat."

"One thing I want to make clear too," he said, "I feel the attitude of the city commission allowed all this to happen. The commissioners have been supportive. They've been conservative on some things and liberal in some ways, particularly where it counted. They've been real supportive of myself."

Sanders said he believes he is leaving the city in a good position but noted there are still several ongoing programs that will need attention, including:

- The 201 Plan for wastewater disposal, under which the city will be improving its sewer collection and treatment systems.
- The ongoing plans for a solid waste disposal facility, including the transfer station which is now under construction and expected to become operational in October and the two proposals being studied for a conversion plant (to diesel fuel) and a combination methane gas and alcohol plant proposed last week.
- Improvements in the city's water system, for which the city is preparing a bond issue for the near future.

Concerning the city's day-to-day operation, Sanders said improvements show in the way city employees are performing "little" tasks such as maintaining median strips and parks. He said the pride city employees feel about their work is one of the more noticeable aspects of the city now.

As to how does Sanders view his own performance?

He said his two major strengths has been the ability to organize and get things done and his ability to establish a rapport between employees and employers.

He said he thinks his major weakness is to be "impetuous sometimes when caution is called for. Sometimes, I make, not rash, but quick decisions that sometimes backfire, but I think that so long as I'm willing to admit my mistakes and go back and try again, that isn't too bad."

Sanders came to Belle Glade in November 1976 after leaving a job as city manager of Eagle, Col. He'd earlier held a similar position at Steamboat Springs, Colo., had been a member of the Leon County administration in Tallahassee and before that was an aide to Gov. David Hall of Oklahoma.

Sanders is a graduate of the U.S. Marine Corps, reaching the rank of Captain.

In Key West, Sanders will be facing the type of challenges he says he enjoys meeting.

According to Mark Andrews, the Key West Citizen, the city's major problem is its small tax base. He said more than half of the city's property is owned by government, mostly state and federal, which generates no property taxes.

That city, with a declining population now estimated between 20,000 and 25,000, is now working with an annual budget of about $4 million, compared to Belle Glade's 1980-81 budget of more than $6 million.

Adding complications is the fact the city's public works, police and fire personnel are the union. One of the worst personnel problems, Andrews said, is in the fire department. He said there are three fire stations and 49 employees, 13 of whom are captains.

He said one of the problems is overtime, that because of existing regulations, it's possible for a captain to earn $250 a day in overtime pay.

Andrews, who covers city hall for the Citizen, said the city has been having severe financial problems and the $180,000 overtime fee this year in the fire department is one of the reasons. He said the existing acting city manager has terminated 23 city employees.

Contrary to wire stories, Andrews said the city hasn't requested financial aid from the state, which could be given but which isn't expected even if the city does make the request, but the city has reportedly said it could go bankrupt.

Sanders said Monday evening one of the major reasons he wants to go to Key West is that, "As all the commissioners know, I'm a water oriented person and the ocean environment is a major attraction."

Election

only building on the even-numbered side of West Avenue A in the 1100 block is Lake Shore Elementary School.

The Herald Observer heard one rumor that Asberry resided in a security trailer on the Lake Shore campus but when asked if that was the case, Asberry refused to comment.

Still another question arose over the date Asberry notified the Supervisor of Elections office of his change of address from Riviera Beach to Belle Glade.

Mrs. Boglioli said the voter registration card he presented to her when he qualified still carried a Riviera Beach address and precinct. She said Asberry told her at first he had requested a change of address on Aug. 4, then later said it was on Aug. 11.

Mrs. Boglioli said she was later informed by Palm Beach County Supervisor of Elections Jackie Winchester that Asberry's change of address was effected Aug. 13, one week before he qualified.

Also running in the Sept. 9 city election, in Group Two, are incumbent Mayor-Commissioner Ralph Kirk and former Belle Glade Public Safety Director and Police Chief Charles Goodlett.

According to the latest figures from Mrs. Winchester's office, on Aug. 20, there are 4,262 voters registered in the city, reflecting a drop of 484 voters who have been purged from the rolls since last year's city election.

Chamber wasn't performing its functions.

The upshot was a "They don't understand us" attitude shared by both sides, leading to an unhealthy and undeclared sniping war of which neither adversary could be very proud.

Like a festering boil the situation came to a head during city budget sessions earlier this month when the commission, with only Commissioner Dorothy Walker arguing against the move, decided not only to not honor the Chamber's request for a $7,000 grant this year but to cut the city's traditional grant of $5,000 to $3,800.

Fortunately, that led Chamber President Rupert Mock Jr. to a meeting with Commissioner Tom Altman, who had suggested the cutback on the grant. Altman agreed to ask the other commissioners to reinstate the $1,200 cut and the two also agreed to make several other positive steps to cement relations.

The agreements should and ought to result in more amicable relations between the Chamber and the City. The community as a whole has too many needs for two such important bodies to be working at cross purposes.

Hopefully, this will mean the energy spent fighting each other will be rechannelled in a common effort against the types of common attacks we've seen recently.

Discussions of goals and how to attain them are good for the body politic but backbiting arguments are unhealthy.

MIAMI DOLPHINS' quarterbacks Bob Griese and Don Strock (above) discuss game strategy during Saturday night's contest against the Minnesota Vikings.

Blessed with quarterbacks...

Dolphins prospects good despite pre-season loss

by Richard Hammel Sr.

Last Saturday night's Miami Dolphins' loss to Minnesota should have little effect on the Dolphins' regular season. While the Dolphins went down to a 17-10 loss, fans should keep in mind that was the first loss in ten pre-season games.

Despite the Vikings' screams that they were renewing the famed Purple People Eaters, and their sheer delight in containing the Dolphins to only 65 net yards rushing, the game really revealed very little about the potential of this year's Dolphins.

Shula used his four quarterbacks which in itself is enough to create bad timing on the part of the entire team. Obviously Coach Shula is trying hard to determine who will be the number one starter, but more importantly, he realizes the Dolphins are blessed with four potential starters and therefore wants to give each of them equal opportunity.

Tony Nathan summed it up in the locker room after the game. "Once we start sticking with one system, we'll get things rolling."

Don Strock also said after the game that with using four quarterbacks, "the change of sequences" had a disrupting effect on the entire team.

"You have to have eleven people going at the same pace to put it all together," Strock said.

Fans should remember that this is pre-season and Shula was faced Saturday night with a close look at all the talent available. He was faced last Tuesday with cutting the squad by 15 players.

Last year the Dolphins fell on hard times when number one Bob Griese suffered a hamstring pull. Guy Benjamin had not recovered from an appendectomy, and Don Strock had a knee injury. At one point Shula even had to resort to using Bruce Hardy, a tight end, to finish a game.

On Monday the Dolphins traded Norris Thomas and Gary Davis to Tampa Bay Buccaneers for former Florida fullback Jimmy DuBose. DuBose at 6 feet, 220 pounds, is not as big as Larry Csonka, but is big enough to get the job done for the Dolphins. Last season DuBose did not play for the Buccaneers after undergoing surgery on his left knee.

Even with the addition of DuBose, the Dolphins will still have to come up with another strong back. Speculation is, of course, that number two Strock will be attractive bait for a trade. This would leave Griese or Benjamin in the one and two spots respectively, with plenty of back-up on Dave Woody.

In an interview with Shula after last Saturday night's game, the coach admitted the Dolphins will have trouble unless the backfield is reinforced.

"The big plays came through and the short yardage stuff didn't work so well," Shula added.

All-Pro II wins tourney

BELLE GLADE -- All-Pro II Sporting Goods won first place this weekend in the Mens Softball Tournament sponsored by The City of Belle Glade Recreation Department. All-Pro II went undefeated in the two day tournament, which was held at the new Airport Park. In second place was Angiers Marlins out of Clewiston and third place was the All-Stars from Belle Glade. M.V.P. went to Dave Carden from the All-Pro II Sporting Goods team and Home Run trophy was won by Craig Kobley of Mace Sod.

It's rallye time

BELLE GLADE -- The City of Belle Glade is sponsoring another car rallye. This rallye will be an overnighter, taking us to a fun spot.

This event has been planned for Sept. 13 and 14. The cost is $55 per couple, which covers entrance fee, hotel room and the evening meal on Saturday. As in all our rallyes, awards will be given for first, second and third place finishes.

"We were required to make advanced reservations at our overnight stop so a pre-registration reply by September 5, 1980 is necessary," Mike Underwood Recreation Coordinator said.

"The first car will leave Belle Glade City Hall parking lot at 9 a.m. on Saturday, Sept. 13. Please make sure you are at the Belle Glade City Hall parking lot no later than 8:30 a.m. on Saturday, Sept. 13. You will be back in Belle Glade by 9:30 p.m., Sunday, Sept. 14," Underwood said.

EMPHASIS

SUNLIGHT WILL HELP POWER SPECIAL HOUSE

FPL and the Florida Solar Energy Center have joined to equip a house at Cape Canaveral with photovoltaic cells and to monitor its performance. A photovoltaic cell converts sunlight directly into electricity.

The house will have 1157 photovoltaic rooftop panels which will supply 5-kw (5,000 watts) of peak power capability during favorable sunlight conditions. The house will need FPL generation when power requirements cannot be met from the panels.

By the way, each kilowatt of photovoltaics, installed, costs about $12,000.

ENERGY STARVED

Some states have energy resources to spare, others have none. According to a study by Chase Manhattan Bank, Florida produces only 20 percent of its energy needs. The other 80 percent must come from sources outside the state.

A DIFFERENT KIND OF RELATIONSHIP exists between the American crocodile and FPL. It's one of protection for the rare crocodile. The U.S. Fish and Wildlife reports that while alligators are prospering, crocodiles are barely surviving. They are being helped at FPL's Turkey Point plant where FPL protects and manages one of their two remaining habitats.

"We must make our choice between economy and liberty, or protection and servitude. If we can prevent the government from wasting the labors of the people under the pretense of caring for them, we will be wise."

— Thomas Jefferson

"MOST ECONOMICAL GENERATION" PURCHASES SAVE CUSTOMERS $$$

Since January, FPL has saved customers over $6-million through purchases of economical generation when available within the state. Florida utilities buy and sell among themselves based on the least expensive electricity available for resale. In addition, another $2.8 million in savings resulted from purchasing power from the Southern Company (Georgia) when less expensive power was available.

Just in case you haven't picked up on it yet, the newest medical miracle is mouse spit. (s-p-i-t, please, proofreader. This is no time to dose off, or we've all had it.)

Maybe that strikes you funny (it sure as heck does me) but let us remember that these are the same folks who found penicillin in moldy leftovers at the back of their refrigerators. Ever wondered how many dishes of unsaved lives you've thrown away?

So stop with the "why aren't they doing something useful like curing the common cold?" Maybe they were wiping little mouse's noses with colds in their heads when all this came up.

Anyway, it seems some scientists up in Boston have discovered that mouse spit. (PROOFREADER!) contains a hormone-like substance that makes wounds heal up faster.

Human spittle (we are not going to press out luck too far) does not contain this magic potent, they say. Just mice, rats, and guinea pigs.

I tell you true that my mind has not been so boggled by the medicine men since they announced plans for stapling people's parts together after surgery.

And that bit of news not only boggled my mind, it also stung me deeply in parts known and unknown.

I would suppose that mice, like dogs, lick their wounds and that was what first chided the researchers that the mice had something bandaids don't. But that is not what has me whirling.

By bedazzlement is this: now that they know, what can they do about it? How do you mass produce mouse (ready, proofreader?) spit?

Statistically speaking, how much spit can a mouse, even with a mouth full of chewing gum, produce a day? And how can you teach a mouse to chew gum, let alone spit a spittoon?

And the price! Even with 50 mice on overtime, the cost per gallon will be astronomical.

I may be sorry when I've said this (we may all be sorry) but is it possible that drooling mice will be used in the 21st century like leeches were in the 19th?

Of course not. They'll go about isolating whatever it is in (Hey!) mouse spit that's the cure-all and mix it up in chemical batches. A few purists will probably demand natural spit. The rest of us will get synthetic spit.

But still! My mind refuses to sit down and think only beautiful thoughts. Now it's asking me how many reports those scientists have had to submit to justify the time and expense of investigating expectorating mice.

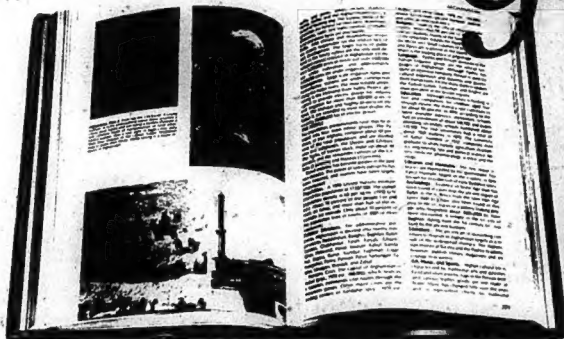

There's long days of work ahead for those intrepid researchers before they get this whole production going. And they're going to need sympathy after a hard day's work just like anybody else. If I were them I don't think I'd mention it at home that I'd spent the whole day burping mice.

Funk & Wagnalls New Encyclopedia...Vol. 1. only

9<sup>9</sup>
With $5 food purchase

If you've been wanting a good encyclopedia, but figured you'd have to lay out hundreds of dollars for it, we've got a surprise for you.

The Funk & Wagnalls New Encyclopedia. This week, we're offering Volume 1 for the incredibly low price of 99¢. Which is our way of introducing you to an encyclopedia that covers 193,000 subjects (more than some encyclopedias costing hundreds of dollars). And features over 10,000 maps, photos and illustrations, many of them in full color.

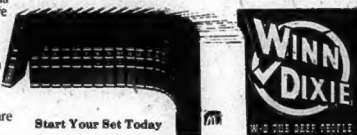

When you and your family have examined Volume 1 at your leisure (without some high-pressure salesman trying to sell you the whole set), we think you'll want Volumes 2 through 27. You can complete your set as you shop each week for $299 a volume.

In no time at all, you'll have what you've always wanted: a home reference library that contains a wealth of information. But hasn't cost a fortune.

Labor Day... the traditional day honoring the labor force of the nation. It's a legal holiday... when working people across the country take a one-day break on the first Monday in September.

Work has long been viewed as the cure for most of the troubles of the world. Honest and productive work, which one intends to get done, is a real blessing for humans. It keeps us moving forward and making our days on this earth worthwhile.

As the parable of the talents shows, God expects us to do something with our abilities. Draw fresh inspiration for your life and work in your house of worship this week.

When someone hears the name, "Pahokee Sales Co.," he or she normally equates this with a lawn mower shop. This is true, but Pahokee Sales Co. also has a large selection of many other items in stock. How about a fancy pair of Tony Lama Lizard or Antelope cowboy boots? If your interests lean toward guns, Pahokee Sales has a full line of handguns & accessories. Don't forget that they also have a full line of riding mowers, tractors, and other types of "quality" lawn maintenance equipment.

PBC Housing Authority's summer rec program ends

SOUTH BAY—Faced with the possibility of a grim summer without any type of recreational activities and no transportation to go where there are activities for youths, children living in the Palm Beach County Housing Authority South Bay site have been fortunate that the possibility of a grim summer was only a thought and not grim reality.

For the fifth consecutive year the Palm Beach County Housing Authority has provided a eight week supervised recreation program for children living in South Bay. Mrs. Mello Joe, Community Service Coordinator with PBC Housing Authority visiting with the South Bay site Thursday said students enjoyed one of the best summer recreational programs in recent years.

"Although the center was lacking in adequate space, more than 100 students took advantage of the program and its offerings daily," she said. Mrs. Joe's appearance at the center Thursday brought an end to the summer recreation program for another year and awards and refreshments for the program participants.

*Jack Parchment, site manager and his assistant Cathy Towns, Community Service Aide and the Urban League

Summer Youth Employment participants planned an awards presentation and art exhibit fair so parents of the program participants could view some of the work the students had created over the summer.

"With funds for purchasing supplies limited Mr. Parchment encouraged the students to use as much creativity as possible in using any safe available materials that could be found around the house," Mrs. Joe added.

Proud of the students' accomplishments, Parchment had on display decorative trash cans made from ice cream containers; note hangers constructed from clothes pins; paper mache items made from newspaper; dual purpose containers created from plastic bleach containers and decorative animal objects made of beer bottles and light bulbs.

Also on display were several wall murals painted on the glass doors of the center.

"There is an abundance of talent here in South Bay, the students only needed someone to encourage them to use it," said Mrs. Joe.

Open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday, Parchment said the students also participated in the daily hot nutrition program at Rosenswald Elementary School and a day camp sponsored by the Young Women Christian Association (YWCA), during the eight week program.

With a day of activities planned to end a summer of fun and a return to the classroom, Mrs. Joe said the McDonald, Inc., of West Palm Beach donated orange drink to the housing authority for the students, and the authority purchased other goodies for the students to munch on during the day of activities.

She added prizes were given to students winning the various games, and certificates presented to the program participants in recognition of their attendance.

Parchment also presented certificates to the SYEP staff, and Ms. Towns for their services.

With the closing of another successful summer program for youths living in South Bay, Mrs. Joe said the PBC

Housing Authority is looking forward to next summer when a proposed recreational building is scheduled to be ready to greet the summer participants next year.

Voter numbers surprising

by Dean Jones

Glades residents have a history of being different from the people on the coast and a revealing set of figures indicates that difference is as marked between voters as in any other area but the most unsettling difference may be in the total numbers.

It shouldn't be surprising, for instance, to know that the ratio of black to white voters in the Glades isn't anything like it is on the coast.

East of 20 Mile Bend, 92.7 per cent of the registered voters are white while only 7.3 per cent are black. In the Glades, it's 63.7 per cent white and 36.3 per cent black.

There's another major difference in party affiliation, with 55.5 per cent of the coastal voters being registered Democrats, 36.8 per cent Republicans and 7.7 per cent Independents or others. In the Glades, the Democrats make up a whopping 82.3 per cent of the electorate, compared to 15.9 per cent Republicans and only 1.7 per cent Independents.

But when it comes to a breakdown in another area, however, figures supplied by Palm Beach County Supervisor of Elections may surprise some people. The Glades and the coastal area run along similar lines when it comes to the differences in numbers based on sex.

For the county as a whole, 55 per cent of the voters are women and 45 per cent are men. In the Glades, the figures are 56.7 per cent women and 43.3 per cent men.

A further breakdown along sexual lines raised a few eyebrows even further, among political observers and politicians when they learned what the ratio was between men and women among the Glades area blacks who are registered Democrats. In that group, a whopping 62.5 per cent are women although the small number of black Republicans and Independents in the Glades are more evenly divided between men and women.

But the real shockers came by comparing the total number of voters in the Glades to the total number of voters in the county. While an estimated 7 per cent of the county's population live west of 20 Mile Bend, the Glades can only muster 2.9 per cent of the county's registered voters.

That figure came as a surprise to a number of people who are recognized as having political savvy and the general consensus was that that's why the Glades may not be getting its share of county services.

Another telling ratio came by comparing the total number of white voters and black voters in the Glades to the corresponding county numbers.

Fewer than 1 per cent of the county's white voters, 0.67 per cent, live west of 20 Mile Bend while a whopping 18.2 per cent of the county's black voters live in the Glades.

There are a total of 8,433 registered voters west of 20 Mile Bend and just over half, 4,262, are residents of Belle Glade, where a city election is being held Sept. 9, the same day as the county's first primary.

The breakdown of voter demographics in Belle Glade parallels that of the overall number in the Glades, with 55.4 per cent white voters compared to 44.6 per cent blacks and 56.4 per cent women compared to 43.6 per cent men.

By parties, 78.6 per cent of Belle Glade's voters are Democrats, 19.5 per cent are Republicans and 2 per cent are Independent or others.

One breakdown for the county as a whole which wasn't supplied by precincts, so is unavailable for just the voters west of 20 Mile Bend, is by age groups.

Only 2.8 per cent of the county's 235,592 registered voters are between the ages of 18 and 20. The number rises in the group encompassing 21-29 year olds to 11.3 per cent and rises again to 48.6 per cent for those aged 50-64.

The clout held in recent years by the county's retirees has a ready explanation in the number of county voters over the age of 65... a whopping 37.3 per cent.

Shula was pleased, however, with the special team play, particularly the running of Don Bessilieu on kick-off returns. He also praised Lynn Blackwood at the strong safety slot.

Returning to the quarterback situation once again, Shula was asked, "Would you consider going with four quarterbacks?" The Dolphins coach answered, "Well you have to have to count four because that means you will have to let somebody go that you would like to keep. The quarterbacks aren't going to help you in special teams but if we get into a situation after talking with all the clubs and we just can't get the value that we should be getting for a quarterback in a trade, I would certainly consider at that time keeping four."

The Dolphins close out the pre-season schedule tomorrow night (Friday) against the Saints.

DIESEL MYSTERIES are explained to students at West Technical Education Center by instructor Joe Harrison. Registration for diesel mechanics was filled up by the opening day of school, Monday, Aug. 25.

West Tech opens

BELLE GLADE -- After a year's delay created by construction problems, West Technical Education Center opened its doors to students for the first time this week.

Daytime classes convened Monday and registration was "as expected," according to Dr. William Babb, West Tech director.

"Opening day figures would be absolutely meaningless," he said, declining to supply registration totals.

He explained that the school has "an open entry, open exit" policy and while the projected enrollment figure is 1,000, students may enter classes anytime during the term.

Also, registration is continuing for night classes which will not start until Sept. 15, he pointed out.

Registration for day courses began Aug. 11 and when school opened, three courses were filled to capacity: diesel mechanics, cosmetology, and practical nursing, according to Juanita Lampi, dean of student services.

However, she said, students may still enroll in heavy equipment mechanics and heavy duty truck and bus mechanics and receive the same training because the three courses are interrelated.

Other courses described as "doing well" as far as registrations go are auto parts counterman, management training, auto body repair and refinishing, and air conditioning, heating, and refrigeration.

Among the classes which have not been filled, according to school officials, are carpentry, horticulture, plumbing, electrical wiring, welding, and commercial foods.

The West Tech curriculum is set up to accommodate both full and part time students and while providing vocational training it also offers scholastic assistance to those needing it, Mrs. Lampi explained. Job placement service is provided as well as a work co-op program.

With the exception of a few courses, students may attend either on both morning and afternoon sessions. After completing 540 hours of a 1,080 hour course, students who show proficiency can be placed in a work situation through Industrial Co-op Education (ICE). ICE students can earn their vocational certificates by continuing to work under supervision. Those lacking proficiency will remain in the classroom. The ICE program is headed by Ken Bowermeister.

While attending classes, students may also get help in finding part time or full time employment through Occupation Specialist Wayne Wilkins.

And students who need tutoring in basic scholastic subjects such as reading, writing, and mathematics, will be assisted through the Individualized Maspower Training System, IMTS -- a tuition-free learning lab.

The IMTS program is open and free to all residents, Mrs. Lampi said, and not just those enrolled in the vocational courses.

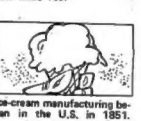

Most of the courses require 1,080 hours of training. Two exceptions are cosmetology, a 1,200-hour course, and practical nursing, which requires 1,314 hours to complete.

A student enrolled in a 1,080-hour course who attends two sessions or blocks a day, can expect to complete the course work in about ten months, Mrs. Lampi said.

Those completing the courses, including students who finish up under the ICE program, receive certification based on state guidelines for competency.

Mrs. Lampi describes West Tech as "one of the best in the state because all the equipment is modern and nothing is outdated."

Additional information concerning West Tech may be obtained by calling 996-7617 or visiting the campus at 2836 State Road 715.

Ex-mayor makes offer

PAHOKEE -- An offer by former Mayor Duncan Padgett to operate the city marina is being considered by the city council.

Councilman Hugo Raineri announced Tuesday night that he had been approached by Padgett with an offer to take over operation of the city harbor facility.

Councilmen delayed taking any action, however, until Mayor Norma Norman returns from vacation.

The city has accepted a $50,000 grant, approved by the Florida Parks & Recreation Dept. and the county, for dock repairs and under the terms of the grant the facility cannot be leased.

City Attorney Michael Sauder advised the council that Padgett might be able to operate the marina as "an independent contractor" adding on behalf of the city but not as an employee, without violating the terms of the contract.

like Democrat Dan Mica. They speak of building more and more free housing subsidized projects, still riding the tax payers.

"We the tax payers are 'fed up' to our necks with such politicians. I own around 40 apartments including 30 brand new ones in Pahokee and I can't even rent them! In fact, they are all empty right now!

You have nine miles of brand new housing projects which are backed by the government. The financing was obtained through the help of Mr. Dan Mica.

Voters, please don't put the give away guys back in office! Let's keep the City Commissioner, Mr. Altman, in office. He is a sensible business man!
